Introduction

World Trade Organisation (2022) has suggested that the World merchandise trade volume is expected to grow 3.0 per cent in 2022 (down from 4.7 per cent previously) and 3.4 per cent in 2023, with the caveat that the projections may change owing to the uncertainty about the course of the conflict in Ukraine. The covid 19 pandemic and the conflict in Ukraine has dealt sever blows to global trade flows and returns to normalcy continue to be disrupted frequently. Needless to say, recovery in global growth in the post pandemic scenario depends to a large extent on the revival in global trade. Banks and financial institutions also have an important role to play in this context to support the endeavours of enterprises by strengthening the provision and delivery of credit and trade finance services.

In this context the Institute is offering the captioned programmes to enable executives of banks and financial institutions to effectively provide credit and trade financing services to clients. The programme will focus on developing skills for rigorous credit appraisal, effective credit monitoring and NPA management.
