Singapore Cooperation Programme

Singapore has provided technical assistance to other developing countries since the 1960s. As a country whose only resource is its people, Singapore believes that human resource development is vital for economic and social progress. Singapore itself has benefited from training provided by other countries and international organisations.

In 1992, the Singapore Cooperation Programme (SCP) was established to bring together under one framework the various technical assistance programmes offered by Singapore. Through the SCP, the range and number of training programmes were increased to share Singapore's development experience with other developing countries.

To date, over 132,000 officials from more than 180 countries and territories have participated in our courses and study visits. The SCP is managed by the Technical Cooperation Directorate of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, Singapore.

Nanyang Polytechnic International

Nanyang Polytechnic International (NYPi) is the international arm of Nanyang Polytechnic, a Singapore Institution of Higher Learning. Since its inception in 2007, NYPi has conducted over 1,000 programmes for more than 20,000 participants from over 40 countries.

NYPi builds its programmes around a Teaching Factory concept – a unique industry oriented and application-oriented pedagogy aimed at providing greater relevance to the industry and context to the industry for effective teaching and learning.

NYPi has also partnered with agencies such as the Temasek Foundation, Asian Development Bank and the World Bank and has been sharing NYPi's deep domain expertise to East Asia, South Asia, Central Asia, and South East Asia. This has helped their education leaders and specialists, and workforce to upskill in tandem with their economic development.
